Carlton Lindsey was born in either Gloucester or Caroline County, Virginia. From "COUNTIES OF CHRISTIAN AND TRIGG, KENTUCKY", edited by W. H. Perrin, page 108, Part II: "As early as 1799, a party of emigrants called a halt on the river at a point where now is situated the town of Canton. We alluded to the family of Abraham Boyd. About the same time of Boyd's arrival or perhaps earlier, a small settlement was made on Donaldson Creek. Among the first to settle in this locality were John and Shadrick Futrell, Josiah Lindsey, and Josiah Lindsey's brothers, James, Caleb and Carlton Lindsey."

The Lindseys moved from South Carolina about 1800 to Christian County., Kentucky, which was named Trigg County in 1820. From Kentucky, in early 1830's, they moved to Hinds County, Mississippi. From Hinds County, about 1835, they moved to what was Choctaw County at that time and is now Montgomery County, Mississippi.

Carlton Lindsey's will is in Will Book A, page 90, Trigg County, Kentucky; was written August 6, 1823, proved October 17, 1825, naming the following 11 children. He left all his lands to John and Talefarra (Taliaferro); Attesting witnesses: Nathan Futrell and John Allen.

Carlton Lindsey's brother, Caleb, in 1812, was commissioned Justice of the Peace. He and his father, Caleb Lindsey, Sr., were surveyors.
